

Take Precautions To Guard Mrs. Simpson; Threatened In Notes

London, Nov. 26.—(AP)—Scores of threatening letters addressed to Wallis Warfield Simpson have caused elaborate precautions to be taken to protect King Edward's American friend.

In addition to the patrolmen always on duty before her lavish Cumberland Terrace home, it was learned today from a reliable source another police officer has been assigned to special duty guarding her against infernal machines.

AMERICA JOINS THANKSGIVING'S HAPPY THROGS

Millions Eat Turkey, Go To Church, And Feed The Poor

Roosevelt Observes Day On Ship Speeding South

By The Associated Press
America's millions—cheered by manifestations of better times—joined in a merry Thanksgiving celebration.

They thronged church services, crowded football stadia and gathered about festive boards to partake of the traditional turkey.

For thousands benefitted by pay increases, wage bonuses and stock dividends, the last Thursday in November was indeed a day of Thanksgiving.

The nation's transportation systems were taxed by the hundreds of thousands of persons who hastened to the family home by plane, bus and railroad.

President Roosevelt observed the feast day aboard the cruiser Indianapolis, speeding south to the inter-American peace conference at Buenos Aires. He sat down with the ship's officers to a turkey dinner.

The prevailing peace in the western hemisphere was stressed by U. S. Ambassador Joseph Daniels in an address at Mexico City's Union Church.

Mrs. Roosevelt spent the day with some of her children and grandchildren at the family estate in Hyde Park, N. Y. Vice President Garner was at his home in Uvalde, Tex.; Postmaster General Farley in Ireland; Secretary of State Hull in Buenos Aires.

The nation's soldiers and sailors and diplomatic representatives enjoyed holiday fare at their stations around the globe.

Hotels and cafes set groaning tables—some in New York at $10 a plate—but the "forgotten men" were remembered, too. Thousands of the destitute received baskets from charitable organizations. Thousands of others were treated by their more fortunate fellows. Many jails and prisons provided fancy railroads.

The origin of Thanksgiving Day was commemorated in annual exercises at Plymouth Rock in Massachusetts.

There was one noteworthy exception to the Gastronomic rule. Oil millionaire John D. Rockefeller, Sr., now 87, held to his regulated diet at his winter quarters in Ormond Beach, Florida.

VESSLS SEIZED

Oslo, Norway, Nov. 26.—(AP)—The Norwegian government charged today two Norwegian vessels had been seized and their cargoes confiscated by Spanish Fascist insurgents.

The government instructed its minister at Lisbon, Portugal, to protest the reported incidents to the insurgent General Francisco Franco. It said the ships, laden with timber and potatoes, were en route to Valencia when they were halted.

WEATHER

For Jacksonville and vicinity—Fair, not quite so cold today; continued warmer tomorrow.

The Norbury Sanatorium, cooperative observer for the U. S. Weather Bureau, last night gave temperatures as: High 27; low 21 and current 23. Illinois—Fair, not quite so cold Friday; Saturday unsettled, snow flurries in north, somewhat warmer in central and south portions.

Indiana—Generally fair, not quite so cold Friday; Saturday becoming unsettled, followed by snow in north portion, slightly warmer in east and south portions.

Missouri—Fair, not so cold Friday; Saturday increasing cloudiness, slightly warmer.

Iowa—Fair, not so cold Friday; Saturday possibly snow, somewhat colder in northwest portion.

GREEN ASKS AN AMENDMENT TO SECURITY PLAN

A. F. Of L. President Would Safeguard Reserve Fund

Provisions Provide For Payment To Farm Laborers

Tampa, Fla., Nov. 26.—(AP)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, called today for amendment of the social security act to protect the gigantic old age reserve fund from congressional "whims."

Pointing out the old age fund would reach an estimated 46 billion dollars by 1980 and payment of annuities would depend on congressional appropriations, Green said:

"There is a danger Congress might get whimsical and refuse to make these appropriations—or use the fund for some other purpose."

"The payment of these annuities must be guaranteed without a peradventure of doubt."

An amendment to earmark the old age reserve would be among many the Federation would send to Congress this winter, Green said. Others now being drafted would:

(1) Extend employment insurance and the compulsory old age annuity plans to cover agricultural workers and all industrial employees.

(2) Increase the maximum federal contribution for old age pensions from $15 to $25 a month.

(3) Have the federal government contribute to the annuity system and reduce the workers' contribution.

(4) Provide for federal collection of the entire employer-paid unemployment insurance payroll tax, with subsequent grants to state funds.

State legislatures, Green said, would be asked to set up the "pooled-fund" type of unemployment insurance, with payments based on the "hazard of unemployment" and to increase the size of old age pensions.

If a constitutional amendment were found necessary to validate any part of this program, Green said, the Federation would support it.

He indicated also that further amendments would be proposed as experience dictated.

Green estimated 3,000,000 farm employees would be affected by the amendments to increase the act's scope. Small business, he added, now is exempt from the program, "leaving thousands of workers without its protection."

Determination of unemployment insurance tax on the basis of "hazard," he explained, would tend to stabilize employment.

The Federation's 56th annual convention will resume its sessions tomorrow after the holiday. Adjournment tomorrow night is probable.

Miss Alexander Has Returned To America

Takes Two Months Vacation From Duties in the Riga, Latvia, Consulate

Traveling on the same ship which carried the famous J. P. Morgan to his native shores, Miss Alexander, of Jacksonville, returned to America on a two months' vacation from her job in Riga, Latvia, it was learned here Thursday.

Miss Alexander, daughter of the late Paul F. and Mrs. Alexander, who formerly resided at Caldwell street, is secretary to the American minister at Riga, and has been in the foreign service of the State Department for several years. Before taking up her duties in Riga, Miss Alexander worked in Havana, Cuba, and Bern, Switzerland.

She will remain in this country until early January, and is at present staying with her mother, Mrs. P. F. Alexander, of 247 East Roland Road, Chester, Pa.

MARK THANKSGIVING DAY AT MACMURRAY

MacMurray College held its annual Thanksgiving celebration yesterday. The dinner for students, parents, and college guests was at one o'clock.

President Emeritus Joseph R. Harker gave the invocation. The after dinner program, with President McClelland presiding, was opened by the college trio, Georgia Bredin, '40, Barbara Koenig, '39, Dorothy Jane Scott, '38. They played The Minute March by Crisler, Geneva Carver, '37, spoke on the subject, The Big Four. She was followed by Winona Rawlings, also of the class of '37, singing Thanksgiving by Cowen.

Rev. John R. Edwards was the after dinner speaker. His subject was Thanksgiving Expressed. The college choir sang Gail's Russian Thanksgiving Hymn and Thanksgiving Anthem by Harker. The entire assembly, singing Hail to MacMurray, closed the program.

The annual Thanksgiving tea-dance at four o'clock in the social room was another feature of the traditional Thanksgiving at MacMurray.

Warming Up to Winter Warfare

While they fight each other with shot and shell, loyalist and rebel forces in Spain also contend with a common enemy—cold. The bitter, pre-mature winter weather in which the armies battle makes necessary the wool cap worn under his steel helmet by this defender of Madrid, and the gloves that keep his trigger finger from freezing to the machine gun's cold steel.

Son of President Is Ten Weeks Old Boy Confined To Hospital Severely Injured With Sinus Infection By Rifle Bullet

Illness Disrupts Thanksgiving Plans of Family At Hyde Park

Boston, Nov. 26.—(AP)—An acute sinus infection today confined Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., to a hospital bed and disrupted the Thanksgiving plans of the presidential family at their Hyde Park, N. Y., home.

Mrs. Roosevelt, mother of the Harvard senior whose engagement to Miss Ethel Du Pont recently was announced, hurried to Boston after hearing that her son was ill. She abandoned arrangements for a holiday family dinner.

Young Roosevelt went to Phillips house of the Massachusetts General Hospital late yesterday. The hospital declined repeatedly to report on the condition of the president's son. Henry Cushing, whose sister is married to James Roosevelt, the president's eldest son, said tonight he did not consider the infection serious.

"The boy will leave the hospital probably within 24 hours," Cushing said, "though possibly he may remain for the treatment over the week-end as long as he is already there."

Mrs. Roosevelt stayed with her son during much of Thanksgiving afternoon.

Although none here would say so definitely, it was generally assumed that President Roosevelt, en route to the Buenos Aires inter-American peace conference, was kept informed of Franklin Jr.'s condition.

Reports circulated in Boston that young Roosevelt's fiancée, Miss Du Pont, also had come to visit him here.

In a single ring ceremony performed at Central Christian church Thanksgiving evening at seven o'clock Dr. M. L. Pontius united in marriage Virgil Little and Miss Frances Cumby, both of Jacksonville.

The bride was a member of the graduating class of nurses at Our Saviour's hospital this year; the groom is engaged in the trucking business. They will reside in Jacksonville.

They were accompanied by Miss Charlotte Lovell, Miss Mildred Arnold and Mr. Beemer of Jacksonville and Mr. Hanner of New Berlin.

The bride and bridesmaid each wore a beautiful corsage of tea roses.

Jersey County Man Injured by Gunshot

Henry Rister Is Wounded When Weapon Is Discharged

Jerseyville, Ill., Nov. 26.—(AP)—Henry Rister of Jersey county was a patient in an Alton, Ill., hospital today as a result of gunshot wounds accidentally inflicted by his 6-year-old grandson, Richard.

Rister was working at a quarry and had placed his shotgun on the ground when the child approached the weapon and caused it to discharge.

Officials of this little town expressed confidence today John D. Rockefeller Jr., will decline the French government's reported offer of their St. Hubert's Chapel in appreciation of his donations for restoring French monuments.

"When Mr. Rockefeller learns how much we are attached to the Chapel, he will be kind enough to decline it," said one of the speakers at numerous meetings called to prevent removal of the old chapel.

The upper Burgundy countryside was abeyant with the government rather than with Mr. Rockefeller, speakers said.

The government has been silent, officials asserted, on whether the chapel definitely was offered to or accepted by Rockefeller.

TWO BILLIONS OF FOREIGN CAPITAL FLOWS INTO U.S.

First Published Reports Show Influx In Less Than Year

Government Shows Concern On Flood Of 'Hot' Money

Washington, Nov. 26.—(AP)—Publishing for the first time the details of foreign capital movements about which President Roosevelt recently expressed concern, the treasury today disclosed a $2,281,659,000 net inflow of funds from abroad between January 1, 1935, and last September 30.

This influx came chiefly from England, Switzerland, France and the Netherlands.

The treasury survey indicated that foreign holdings in this country approximated $7,000,000,000—believed the highest in history—on September 30.

The 127-page report, was issued as administration experts continued a general study of foreign funds here ordered by President Roosevelt.

Actuated by economic fears abroad and hopes of profit in the United States, the capital inflow has been carefully watched by the treasury, the federal reserve board and the securities commission to determine its effect on the nation's credit and price structure.

Officials of these agencies will decide whether any control measures are needed to guard domestic economy against "hot money"—money which flees from one nation to another for security.

Of the $2,281,659,000 net capital inflow in the 21-month period, the treasury report showed, $1,353,072,000 was in short-term banking funds, $805,429,000 in securities, and $23,158,000 in brokerage balances.

Foreign bank balances and security holdings are scrutinized particularly by fiscal officials, because theoretically all of the former and most of the latter could be immediately withdrawn, tumbling domestic prices and draining off the supply of credit.

Statistically picturing how the lure of securities profits enticed funds from abroad, the report showed an increasing proportion of investments in stocks and bonds.

American charge d'affaires, Eric C. Wendelin, accompanied the second group, made up of foreign members of the National Telephone company staff who had been living under bombardment in the ornate American-owned telephone building, Col. Sothenes Behn, New York financier and international communications executive, was in the party.

Wendelin is setting up an embassy at Valencia. "The Americans who are leaving Spain will depart on the United States cruiser Raleigh, for France. The Madrid embassy was closed officially."

Thanksgiving Snow Makes Streets Icy

Weather Man Orders White Covering for Community To Last Over Holiday

The weather man got his Thanksgiving and Christmas dates slightly mixed yesterday sending a light snow that gave the Turkey Day holiday a Yuletide atmosphere. While the snow melted in some places almost as fast as it fell, a freezing temperature left pavements and sidewalks covered with a thin coating of ice.

The Thanksgiving day temperature sank to 21 degrees early in the morning, never getting above 27. At 7 o'clock last night the mercury stood at 23 degrees, with indications that it would sink to a new season's mark.

Thursday's snow was the first of the winter, a reminder that colder days are ahead.

Heavy clouds of smoke issued from the burning and the construction of the structure made the fight to stop the flames difficult. Two lines of hose were used to halt the blaze which started near the floor and climbed to the attic. The building is owned by Mrs. Kate Cosgriff Koenig.

When the firefighters had placed the flames under control they were given coffee and lunch by the Sisters at Our Saviour's hospital nearby.

Those who took part in the hussing were Horace H. Massey, Chas. Williamson, Enos Massey, Orville Massey, Harold Spaulding, Harry Massey, Homer Massey, Fred Massey, Honier Harrison, Geo. H. Massey, James McCurley, Mr. Van Cleve, Geo. Robinson.

FRIENDS HUSK CORN FOR ROBERT HARNEY, SICK IN HOSPITAL

A group of neighbors and friends of Robt. Harney, who resides south of Jacksonville, gathered at his farm home Wednesday morning and husked his corn for him.

Mr. Harney has been quite ill at Passavant Hospital for the past three weeks.

MYSTERIOUS EXPLOSION

Santa Monica, Calif., Nov. 26.—(AP)—Four coast guard patrol boats beat up and down the Los Angeles county coast line today, seeking to learn the origin of an explosion at sea which shook windows from Santa Monica to Malibu.

No wreckage was found to substantiate a theory that a vessel caught fire and exploded.

The master of the fishing barge Fox, anchored off Topanga Canyon, north of Santa Monica, reported the explosion appeared to be subterranean, somewhere along the floor of the ocean not far from his vessel.

This, however, did not explain reports of a brilliant flash of light that accompanied the detonation.

Marooned Americans Eat Meager Feast As Fellow Citizens Flee

Madrid, Nov. 26.—(AP)—Twenty-two Americans with-in beleaguered Madrid ate beans and sardines on this cold Thanksgiving day while 76 fellow citizens fled through the rain to Valencia and escape from shot and shell of civil war.

Bursting hand grenades and artillery fire echoed through the city to mark Fascist advance in University City suburb as the Americans sat down to their plain fare—a far cry from the traditional Turkey festival of the Pilgrim Fathers.

The 22 Americans, a dozen of them from the United States, dined on the white beans and sardines with bread, and had an orange apiece for desert. Cold chestnuts provided the closest approach to a Thanksgiving menu-piece.

There was a bit of meat-potato stew for supper and some fruit. Most of the embassy residents tried to devote the day to sleep after a night-long stretch preparing their friends for the Valencia trip.

The 76 who fled the city, including embassy officials, ate omelet, ham and oranges along the roadside. Traveling in buses and private automobiles, they were to board an American warship for transportation from Spain.

The hand grenade battle in the suburbs marked Fascist advance against the clinic hospital where comrades were marooned by Madrid Socialist troops.

Fascist occupation of the hospital cut between the foreign volunteer brigade fighting for Madrid defenders and socialist batteries near the model prison.

But the government asserted its troops had surrounded the insurgents on three sides and that their position was precarious. American citizens and others remaining at the U. S. embassy at their own risk chiefly were business officials or newspapermen.

Ten American women married to Spaniards or other nationals were in the embassy.

The main group of fifty Americans, including four children, left at dawn in a cavalcade of buses and private cars.

American charge d'affaires, Eric C. Wendelin, accompanied the second group, made up of foreign members of the National Telephone company staff who had been living under bombardment in the ornate American-owned telephone building, Col. Sothenes Behn, New York financier and international communications executive, was in the party.

Wendelin is setting up an embassy at Valencia. "The Americans who are leaving Spain will depart on the United States cruiser Raleigh, for France. The Madrid embassy was closed officially."

The holiday interrupted peace negotiations between one group of ship-owners and the unions. The plight of strike-isolated Hawaii remained to be considered.

Col. O. P. Ohlson, manager of the government-owned Alaska railroad, announced the completion of arrangements with the unions but said the necessary contracts would not be signed until tomorrow after the unions reckoned the details.

The arrangement was made by authority of President Roosevelt, who recently authorized government chartering and operation of emergency vessels to the northern territory to break a shortage of fresh foods and other necessities.

Ohlson said he would employ 80 seagoing men at once and would use an undetermined number of long-shoremen. The men are to be paid wages prevailing last season for fishing fleet personnel. This pay averages about $12 a month per man higher than that paid most seamen before the strike developed October 30.

The Alaska railroad is to bear the chartering and operating expenses. Ohlson did not disclose the figures involved.

Thanksgiving menus were stunted in Alaska and Hawaii as well as in the strikers' mess halls.

Brown St. House Damaged by Fire

Firemen Extinguish Flames In Bell Residence Thursday

At 5:10 o'clock Thursday afternoon the Jacksonville fire department was called to the residence of Mrs. Nora Bell, 210 1/2 Brown street, where a defective chimney had caused the dwelling to catch fire. Considerable damage resulted before the firemen, extinguished the blaze.

Heavy clouds of smoke issued from the burning and the construction of the structure made the fight to stop the flames difficult. Two lines of hose were used to halt the blaze which started near the floor and climbed to the attic. The building is owned by Mrs. Kate Cosgriff Koenig.

When the firefighters had placed the flames under control they were given coffee and lunch by the Sisters at Our Saviour's hospital nearby.

Those who took part in the hussing were Horace H. Massey, Chas. Williamson, Enos Massey, Orville Massey, Harold Spaulding, Harry Massey, Homer Massey, Fred Massey, Honier Harrison, Geo. H. Massey, James McCurley, Mr. Van Cleve, Geo. Robinson.

NAVY DEFEATS ARMY IN HOCKEY GAME

The Navy beat the Army 2-1 in the annual Thanksgiving hockey game at MacMurray College. The Army team, consisting of the Juniors and Freshmen, was no easy opponent. The Navy team, the Seniors and the Sophomore players, fought for their two points. The snow was a disadvantage to both teams. Both teams had their marcos present—the goat for the Navy and the mule for the Army—which caused no little amusement among the spectators.

In the Navy team were Dorothy DeFries, captain, and the Misses Phillips, King, Nolting, Mahan, Klupp, Welch, Bergstrom, Diskman, Western and Lough. In the Army team were Miss Mary Frye, captain, and the Misses Edmonds, Ryan, Seymour, Morgan, Strawbridge, Coates, Mahon, Mullins, Morris and Johnson.

Cass Had Long Fight To Get 3-Mile Strip

(NOTE—The following address was presented at a recent meeting of the Morgan County Historical Society by Miss Loretta Martin of Virginia. The address describes the causes back of the decision to found Cass county, and of the subsequent legislative battles over a three mile strip, which Cass county representatives successfully argued should be a part of their county and not of Morgan county, and of the contest between Virginia and Beardstown to be selected as the county seat.)

The division of large areas, for convenience of government, into smaller and still smaller sections, is naturally consequent upon the increase of population within those areas. Thus the great northwest territory, organized under the famous Ordinance of 1787, was by 1800 found too large for a single government and was divided into two territories—the Ohio and the Indiana; and only a few years later—in 1809, as all will remember—Illinois territory was set off from the latter.

Map Shows Location of Disputed Strip

Meanwhile, a large "county," covering all the region bounded by a line running from the mouth of the Little Mackinaw River in what is now Tazewell county, Illinois, down the Illinois and Mississippi Rivers, up the Ohio to the mouth of Massac Creek, and thence northward back to the mouth of the Mackinaw, had been formed, and named St. Clair county; and presently a division took place by which all that part of St. Clair county south of a line running east to the Wabash River through what is now Monroe county, became the county of Randolph. In 1812 three more counties—Madison, Gallatin and Johnson—were established; and by 1818, when Illinois territory became the state of Illinois and was admitted to the Union, there were fifteen counties within her boundaries.

Greene County formed in 1821 Madison county originally extended northward far beyond its present boundary; and in 1821 Greene county was formed from that portion of it which lay immediately above its present limits. The northern boundary of Greene county was the same as it is today. Then, in 1823, Morgan county was formed in that unorganized part of Madison county which lay just north of Greene.

The boundaries of Morgan county, as set forth in the Act of Legislature by which the county was established on January 30, 1823, were: "Beginning at the northwest corner of Greene county; thence east to the range line between seven and eight west of the third principal meridian; thence northerly along the middle of the prairie that divides the waters of the Sangamon River from those of Apple Creek, Maudslawster and Indian Creek, until it arrives at the middle of range eight; thence north to the middle of the main channel of Sangamon River; thence down the said channel to the middle of the main channel of the Illinois River; thence down said last mentioned channel to the place of beginning."

The area thus bounded, which had previously been attached to Greene county for judicial purposes and for representation in the General Assembly, was about forty miles long and thirty-two miles wide, and therefore included about twelve hundred and eighty square miles, or approximately eight hundred thousand acres of land. It comprised the areas of the present counties of Morgan, Scott and Cass, and had at that time between one thousand and fifteen hundred inhabitants. In 1825 the site of the present city of Jacksonville was fixed upon as "the permanent seat of jus-ice for the county," and the town laid out in March of that year.

Politics Enters Scene But increase of population is seldom the only cause leading to division and subdivision of territory. Usually there are also present specific, political reasons of a purely local nature. Certainly this was the case in the setting off of Cass county from Morgan county in 1837.

The decade of the thirties, bringing with the defeat of Black Hawk—final freedom from the Indian menace in Illinois, saw great tides of immigration passing ever northward from the southern part of the state. By 1837 central Illinois was fairly well settled. In that year Morgan county was leading many other counties in point of population, and Jacksonville had become one of the most important towns in the state—one of those, in fact, seeking to become its capital when the term for which Vandall had been appointed to hold that honor should expire.

To a great extent, however frontier conditions still prevailed. In all of brilliant careers. It was the time of Samuel D. Lockwood, long a justice of the Supreme Court of Illinois; of John J. Hardin, the illustrious lawyer and soldier, who gave his life at Beuna Vista in 1847; of Murray McConnell and William Thomas, who lived out long, many sided and honored careers as lawyers and legislators; of John Henry, Josiah Lamborn, and many other whose names are inseparable from the annals of Jacksonville and the state. The governor of the state, Joseph Duncan, also was a resident of Jacksonville.

It was inevitable that men of this type should exert their natural qualities of leadership in whatever sphere their activities were engaged. And when it came to matters affecting Morgan county—particularly in the state legislature, where the interests of the two sections of the county were often in conflict—it was perhaps just as inevitable, human nature being what it is, that the northern part should bear a certain resentment over the easy domination exerted by the southern end, and should have no hesitancy in designating the Jacksonville group a "clique" or "ring."

Hall Planned Carefully However this may have been, for several years prior to 1837 a movement had been under way for the erection of a new county from the northern part of Morgan. As might be expected, Thomas Beard and Dr. Hall were leading spirits in this movement. The latter is said to have been especially active, having already taken care to lay out his town in almost the exact center of the territory which would naturally comprise the new county. Mr. Beard no doubt rested somewhat easily in the conviction that since Beardstown was not only nearly a decade older than Virginia, but had already achieved some importance as a shipping center, the river city could hardly fail of being designated the seat of justice for the new county.

Among other ardent workers for the cause were Archibald Job, who had settled in the neighborhood of the present town of Virginia at a very early date, and had served as one of the first representatives from Morgan county in the legislature; John W. Pratt, of whom more later; Richard S. Walker; and Francis Arenz, another remarkable pioneer, whose newspaper, the "Beardstown Chronicle, and Illinois Military Bounty Land Advertiser," first issued in 1833, was then the only newspaper in this region, north of Jacksonville.

At length, in the winter of 1836-37, petitions for the creation of a new county—to comprise all that part of Morgan which lay north of the line dividing Townships 16 and 17, from the Illinois River across to the Sangamon county line—were circulated. These petitions were signed by about five hundred voters, and duly presented at Vandallia.

It was the Tenth General Assembly of the State of Illinois that was in session at this time—that assembly which will always be remembered for the remarkable number of brilliant and distinguished men which it included, and, paradoxically, for the enormous folly which it committed in the enactments of the Internal Improvements Act. It was this assembly, also, that passed the act removing the state capital from Vandallia to Springfield.

Morgan county was represented at this time by William O'Rear, William Thomas, and William Weatherford, senators; and by Newton Cloud, Stephen A. Douglas, William Hapley, Joseph A. Douglas, William Morton, John J. Hardin, Joseph Morton, and Richard S. Walker, representatives. Of these gentlemen, only one, Mr. Walker, resided in the portion of Morgan that was to constitute the new county. However, a bill, based on the petitions, was presented and passed. By its terms "a new county to be called the county of Cass" was created, provided the vote of the citizens of Morgan county as it was then organized, be taken at a special election held for that purpose, should be favorable to the proposition.

Section One of this bill defined the boundaries of the proposed county; Section Two designated the third Monday of April (1837) as the day on which the special election should be held; and Section Three provided that in the event the proposition carried, another election should be held, at which the citizens of the new county should decide the location of their county seat.

Find Joker It was Section One that made all the trouble. For the southern boundary of the new county, instead of being placed along the line dividing Townships 16 and 17, in accordance with the petitions, was made to run through the center of Township 17, or three miles further north than the petitions read. Great was the dismay of the north end politicians when this was discovered! Immediately they accused Jacksonville of having put through a plan whereby—seeing that creation of the new county was inevitable sooner or later—she had seized this opportunity to arrange the boundary in such a manner as to place herself as nearly as possible in the center of the remaining portion of Morgan, thus insuring her permanence as a county seat.

While they were about it, they also declared that by leaving the location of the county seat of Cass to the vote of the citizens of that new county—which vote would almost certainly result in the selection of Beardstown for that distinction—Jacksonville was only protecting herself from the presence of another county seat so near to her own doors as Virginia. (It is to be remembered that the difference between fifteen miles and twenty-two miles was not the entirely negligible matter in 1837 that it is today.)

However, it is evident that the real reason back of the lively remonstrance instituted by the promoters of the new county, was the fact that the substituted boundary line deprived Cass of a strip, three miles in width, running across the entire length of the county east and west; and that this "Three Mile Strip," as it at once came to be called—and is called to this day, so long drawn and bitter was the contention over it—contained some eighty square miles of exceedingly fertile prairie land sorely needed by the new county.

For Cass, as her friends pointed out, was bounded not only by the Illinois River but by the Sangamon as well; and therefore had a greater area of swamp land, with many sandridges and bluffs. Moreover, in accordance with the early belief, much of the soil in the interior, also, (being what was called "barrens") was considered unproductive—"waste and unutilizable lands," was the phrase employed. A hundred years of agricultural development have completely changed the estimate of Cass county soil, but doubtless the matter was real enough to the settlers of that day.

Point to Wealth At any rate, it was held that this "Three Mile Strip," if retained by Morgan, would not only give that county an area of 612 square miles, and Cass but 288 square miles, but would make Morgan one of the richest, and Cass one of the most impoverished, counties in the state.

Nevertheless, the vote passed by the legislature, and known as "An Act for the Formation of the County of Cass," was approved by Governor Duncan and signed by him on March 3, 1837, thereby becoming a law. When the third Monday in April, the date set for the acceptance or rejection of the new county by the voters of the whole of Morgan, came, the displeasure of many of the north end citizens over the changed boundary line manifested itself in refusal to vote. Of those who did vote, many were said to have done so only because they felt certain that some future legislature would attach the "Strip" to Cass. Altogether, less than 1000 votes were cast, though at a recent election the county had polled 3,600 votes. The long fight for the new county, therefore, was about to come to naught. For, since the county offered was not the county sought, it was rejected at the polls, though by a very small majority.

Throw Out Two Precincts By a twist of fate, however, the election was declared favorable to the formation of the county. For when the returns were counted, the votes from two whole precincts—Meredosia, in Morgan, and Lucas (now Richmond) in what is now Cass—both of which were almost unanimously against the measure, were rejected. This action on the part of the canvassing board at Jacksonville was due to the fact that neither of these precincts had made its returns in the proper manner. Those from Meredosia had been carried in by a citizen who was neither a clerk nor a judge of the election; and those from Lucas had been sent in through the mails. The required certificate of election results was then transmitted to the Secretary of State, and Cass county—named for Lewis Cass, general in the War of 1812, Secretary of War under President Jackson, and Secretary of State under President Buchanan—came into existence.

The citizens of the new county could only accept the situation with what grace they might. In some instances this was not so hard to do as a great deal. It is not recorded that any hunger strikes were entered upon, but it is remembered that one old gentleman, living on Jersey Prairie near the now vanished town of Princetown, vowed that never again, as long as he lived, would he cast a vote in any election whatever—a vow which he kept to the letter; and one whole precinct refused at first to organize.

Then two months later, the election received an unexpected and final confirmation when the legislature, being in special session at the time, declared that "Whereas, at an election held in the county of Morgan, according to the provisions of 'An Act for the formation of the county of Cass,' it appeared that a majority of the voters of said county voted for the creation of said county; . . . it was therefore 'enacted by the people of the State of Illinois represented in the General Assembly, that the county of Cass, as designated and bounded in the 'Act for the formation of the county of Cass,' approved March 3, 1837, be, and the same is hereby declared to be, one of the counties of this State."

Debate Over County Seat For many years after the setting off of Cass county from Morgan county, the new county was divided against itself on the question of the county seat. Originally bestowed upon Beardstown, the honor passed in 1839 to Virginia, only to be retrieved by Beardstown six years later. Yet at no time were the citizens of the county too preoccupied with this lamentable controversy to abandon the idea that the "Three Mile Strip" rightfully belonged to Cass, nor to relax their efforts to obtain it.

Beginning at the very next session of the legislature after the county was created, those who had labored for the passage of the original bill, bent their efforts toward the passage of a second bill, which would right the wrong, as they considered it, done by the first one. Obviously it was futile to submit the question to the vote of the people of both Cass and Morgan, since the latter, with its greater population, could readily outvote the former on any matter upon which the two were in disagreement. The idea now, therefore, was to permit the residents of the disputed territory themselves to decide, by vote, to which county they wished to belong.

Again Dr. Hall spent freely of both time and means, directing his efforts toward winning the citizens of the "Strip" to the interests of Cass. "He personally visited every voter in it," says one historian, "and by various arguments, embellished with a good deal of Irish blarney, persuaded many of them to favor secession from Morgan county."

Not even Dr. Hall, however, worked harder than did John W. Pratt. Mr. Pratt, a very able lawyer, was a native of Maryland, from which state he had come, on horseback, to Illinois in 1835. Settling in the north-east part of Morgan county, he at once became active in local affairs, and was one of the prime movers in the events that led to the formation of Cass county. At the first election of officers for the new county, he was chosen county clerk. In 1842 he resigned that office and became a successful candidate for the legislature.

No sooner had Mr. Pratt taken his seat in the House of Representatives than he introduced a bill for the annexation of the coveted ground to Cass. He was assisted in his fight for the measure by David Epler, a representative from Morgan whose home was within the "Strip," and who favored its attachment to Cass. The two were bitterly opposed by the other members from Morgan, whose leaders were Newton Cloud and Richard Yates; and the House Journals in which the proceedings of this session are recorded make interesting and spirited reading.

On the 7th of February, 1843, Mr. Pratt, who was possessed of marked ability as an orator, made what seems to have been a rather memorable speech in support of his bill. Until a decade or two ago there were living in Virginia (where Mr. Pratt's home still stands, on the old "west square") persons who were present on that occasion, and who ever afterward enjoyed telling of that address. The original copy of it is still in existence, the property of a grandson, Mr. W. H. Treadway, of Beardstown; and a photostatic copy is on file in the Illinois State Historical Library at Springfield.

Mr. Pratt, whose mother, incidentally, was a cousin of John Tyler, one of the Presidents of the United States—reviewed the history of the formation of Cass county, asserting once more that the boundary had been unsatisfactorily established, and that many of the citizens most desiring the new county had consequently refused to vote.

"I do not mean," he said, "to cast censure on the then existing delegation from Morgan county, for changing the lines and referring the question back to a vote of the people; nor do I mean to charge the majority of the people of Morgan county with the intention of forcing the county on the people of Cass, for they had the power and did not exercise it. But I do mean to say that it is a fact beyond controversy, the people of Cass county have a county they were opposed to; a county they were not willing to accept; a county against the formation of which they remonstrated until remonstrance was vain—until the legislature declared the county established; a county which they now call upon the legislature to enlarge."

Pressing the justice of his claims, he stated that Cass county had been formed "with limits so contracted as to require the heaviest assessments of taxes to defray the necessary expenses of county government"; and cited the fact that Morgan could well spare the disputed ground, since the law of 1841, pertaining to the division of counties, stipulated that no old county should be reduced to less than 400 square miles; and no new county created with less than that area; while Morgan, even without the "Strip," would have 132 square miles more, and Cass 32 square miles less, than this law provided. Nor would her political power be diminished, since she would still have the requisite population to entitle her to four representatives in the assembly, though Cass would have but one.

Mr. Cloud had declared that "if any wrong has been done to Cass in the formation of the county she alone is responsible, as Cass county received the county in its present form and Morgan county voted against it"; and had offered as evidence the official certificate of the clerk of the county commissioners court of Morgan county regarding the election, but Mr. Pratt adamantly answered the vote, showing that out of the total of 500 votes in favor of the county, Cass had cast but 163; and stressing the fact that the favorable majority of 21 votes in the election had been due to the rejection of the poll books of Meredosia and Lucas precincts. For Lucas alone, he affirmed, had polled 36 votes against, and one vote for, the county; so that had this book been accepted, there would have been—even without the Meredosia returns—a majority of 14 against, rather than 21 favoring, the formation of Cass county in the total count.

Various other contentions of the Morgan group were met in like manner, and Mr. Pratt, rejecting all appeal to party politics, closed, rather, with a ringing appeal to "the wisdom and justice of this House," after having declared that "if this territory is not given to Cass now, not only at the next session of the legislature, but at every subsequent session until it is given, or until the right to petition is spurned from these halls, they will petition and call upon the representatives of the people to redress their grievances."

But Mr. Pratt could not, of course, claim that the two poll books in question should have been accepted, nor could he offer objection to election results which were due in part to the failure of the disaffected citizens of the proposed new county to vote; and not withstanding his eloquence, the bill failed to pass. So long as the Morgan group remained opposed, the other members of the assembly declined to vote for the measure, on the ground that it was a local question; and the legislature adjourned a month later, before the opposition of the Morganites could be overcome.

Finally Get Strip

Mr. Pratt, however, was in no wise discouraged. In 1844 he was chosen again to represent the people of Cass in the House, and again he took up the fight for the "Three Mile Strip." By this time he had gained not only in experience but in influence. Moreover, he had the additional assistance of Francis Arenz, who was now one of the members from Morgan, and, since he had removed to the village of Arenzville, was a resident of the "strip." Or perhaps Morgan county was utterly wearied by the importunity of Cass. At all events, February 26, 1845, saw the passage of a bill whereby the question of transferring the "strip" to Cass was finally submitted to those who lived within the vexed three miles. The election was held on the first Monday in May, 1845. 246 votes were cast for, and 78 against, attaching the territory to Cass—thus giving a favorable majority of 168 votes.

So ended a long and unfortunate dispute—the boundary between Morgan and Cass remaining to this date as determined in 1845, and the inhabitants of both counties living "happily and peaceably" ever after.

Elsah Farmer Shot
By Small Grandson
In Hunting Accident

Taken to Alton Hospital with Wound in Forearm; News
from Jersey County

Jerseyville.—Henry Rister of Elsie Township, Jersey county, is a patient in an Alton, Ill., hospital as a result of gunshot wounds accidentally inflicted by his grandson, Richard Faulkner, aged 6.

The accident occurred at a small rock quarry on the Rister farm where Rister had gone to plan for the removal of a quantity of building stone. He was accompanied by the small boy and carried his shot gun in anticipation of kicking up a rabbit eprouete from the farm house to the rock quarry. A beagle hound was taken along to flush the rabbits.

When Rister arrived at the quarry he placed the shot gun on the ground not far from where he was working. A short time after Rister received a charge of shot from the gun.

"I didn't know what had happened to me," Rister told hospital attendants. "I was stooping down to reach a piece of rock when something struck my arm. I managed to make my way almost to my house three hundred yards away, when I must have collapsed. Neighbors brought me to the hospital."

"I did not see my little grandson after being hurt. But my son, who came to see me, said that he had found the shotgun discharged, and the boy told him of picking it up when we were at the quarry. The little fellow was just trying to help his grandpa."

At the time Rister was received at the Alton hospital, neither Rister nor those accompanying him knew how he had sustained the injury. It was first thought that a dynamite cap used in the quarry work had exploded prematurely. The examination of the attending physician at the hospital, however, revealed that a load of lead pellets the size of quail shot was imbedded in the right forearm.

In addition to the arm wound, Rister suffered a bruise about his right eye. He was uncertain how he sustained the eye injury but believed it was incurred when he fell, either at the moment of injury or when he collapsed near his home.

Funeral services will be held for Mrs. Mary J. Bruns Friday afternoon, November 27th at two o'clock at Jacoby Brothers Chapel. Rev. W. L. Hanbaum, pastor of the Jerseyville Methodist church, officiated and interment was in Oak Grove Cemetery.

Mrs. Bruns died at her home in Jerseyville Wednesday morning, Nov. 25th at 6:10 o'clock following a few weeks' illness.

The deceased was the daughter of the late William and Sarah Wilkinson Plummer. She was born in Gilead, Illinois, February 20th, 1863 and at the time of her death was aged seventy-three years, nine months and five days.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Bruns is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Henry Buchanan, Pleasant Hill; Mrs. Thad Lewis, Pompano, Florida; Mrs. John Syler, Carothersville, Mo.; Mrs. Edward Ringhausen of Jerseyville; one son, Arthur Ward of Jerseyville; three sisters, Mrs. Lyle Fowler, Alton; Mrs. Clara Wil-

"THANKS A MILLION"

FOR MORE THAN A MILLION

America has bought 1,130,000 Chevrolets during the past twelve months, thereby giving Chevrolet the greatest year in its history and the greatest measure of buyer preference it has ever enjoyed.

The builders of Chevrolet are thankful for many things, but most of all for the warm friendship of the American people.

And so again at this Thanksgiving season we say, "Thank you, America," for you have given Chevrolet a measure of good-will without parallel in the annals of modern industry.

Consider, for a moment, all that you have done to inspire Chevrolet's appreciation during the past twelve months:

You have purchased 1,130,000 Chevrolets; you have made Chevrolet your favorite car for the seventh time in the past ten years; you have given Chevrolet strong preference in every section of the country; you have conferred this same high honor upon Chevrolet trucks by purchasing more than 205,000 commercial units; you have made 1936 the most successful year in all Chevrolet history.

And now, to climax these expressions of friendship, you are displaying even more marked preference for the new Chevrolet for 1937.

It is difficult to express adequate appreciation for gifts so great and so generous as these.

All we can say is, "Thanks a million" for more than a million cars in 1936; and all we can do is offer you the still finer Chevrolet of 1937 in return for the finest friendship ever bestowed upon any motor car manufacturer.

GUARANTEED RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Common constipation is usually due to meals low in "bulk." Pills and drugs give only temporary relief. The sensible thing to do is to put "bulk" back into your meals. Millions of people get this needed "bulk" in a delicious cereal: Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Its "bulk" is much like that in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, gently cleanses the system.

Some years ago, an investigation was made among thousands of ALL-BRAN users. 93 per cent found it satisfactory. Only 2 per cent had the type of constipation that would not respond to ALL-BRAN.

ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Try it a week. If not satisfactory, your money will be refunded by the Kellogg Company.

Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily, either as cereal or in cooked dishes. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Miss Opal Tillman local chairman of the International Relations committee of the Business and Professional Woman's club has received from the State chairman the announcement that a constructive plan has been suggested for all clubs in the Federation to make a definite study of international news. Study groups will receive material from headquarters, to assist them in round table, or Marathon discussions in connection with the regular meetings.

The local chairman asks that all members register with her for an international relations kit, containing suitable reading matter. The projects to be considered are: To help create a "peace-minded" public opinion; Motion picture project (a) use of bulletin on current films, published by the National Council for the Prevention of War; (b) Secure box support for approved pictures; (c) Protest against addresses that are not approved; Cooperate with high school International Relations clubs; Furnish speakers, and help with libraries. The plan, which has been carried out in the past in the Business and Professional Woman's club will be continued, this year under the supervision of the International Relations committee to keep informed on issues of the day and to study the legislative measures, also to have informed speakers during the year to address the organization.

HELP
KIDNEYS PASS
3 LBS. A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, lumbago, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

High School Tames I. S. D. Tigers 6 To 0 In Snowy Battle

Crimsons Display Power By Registering 8 First Downs; Tigers Make Stubborn Fight

Completely stifling any offense of the Tigers and outplaying them in every department, Jacksonville High school won a glorious victory yesterday morning, 6 to 0.

The Crimsons missed several good chances to tally as they rolled up eight first downs to two for the School for the Deaf. The ball was only on the Crimsons' side of midfield once and that was the result of a punt. And it didn't stay there long.

The entire J.H.S. team played top notch football, making it almost impossible to pick out stars. The line was a stone wall from end to end and the back field mopped up any of the line's unfinished business in decisive fashion.

The lone score of the game came in the second quarter after the Crimsons had already flashed a series of brilliant offensive maneuvers.

I. S. D. kicked off and J.H.S. punted back after three plays failed to gain the first down. The deaf boys couldn't do a thing however, and punted back on fourth down. The ball was downed on the Jacksonville 40 yard line.

J.H.S. Displays Power

Then the Crimsons started displaying the power that overwhelmed the Tigers, keeping them chained and harmless for the remainder of the game. Slashing off tackle, taking an occasional swing around the end, and hitting the dead center of the line, the Crimsons marked up three first downs in a row on straight football to move the plunkin across to the I. S. D. 30 yard stripe. "Rabbit" Ranson, playing his last game for the high school, bore the brunt of the high carrying with Hickie, Scott and Abel relieving him. When on the 20, Ranson started on an end run but a Tiger linesman brow, through and downed him on the 30 to stop the first J.H.S. threat. Ranson then kicked and Harold Marshall, who played a tremendous game defensively all day, downed the ball on the one yard line.

Dhondt booted out to the 30 and Ranson shot off tackle to bring it right back to the 12. He then plunged for three more yards and on the next play missed a beautiful chance to zoom him on the one yard line. There the quarter ended.

I. S. D. had to kick and Dhondt booted it out to the 21. Ranson and Hickie moved it up to the seven for a first down but Ranson was smeared back on the 23 yard line the next play and was forced to kick, the ball rolling to the end zone.

Set Back by Penalty

Ray Abel broke through to get Otten three yards back of the line of scrimmage on the first play. On the second, the Tigers attempted to work a "screened pass" for which they incurred a penalty back to their own five yard marker. Dhondt kicked straight up and had to kick over. This time he kicked out to the seven.

This time it was the real thing. Ranson plunged two yards. Abel snaked off tackle to the one yard line.

Ranson plowed through to the one foot position and on the next play banged over for a touchdown. Abel's attempted conversion by running was not good. The deaf boys got to him too swiftly.

The rest of the game was all J.H.S. The Crimsons would get the ball and force it deep into Tiger territory where they would lose it on downs or on a fumble. During the second half, Ranson's beautiful kicking put the ball out of bounds within the eight yard line three consecutive times.

Three Play Last Game

Three boys played their last game for J.H.S. yesterday. Donald "Rabbit" Ranson, one of the greatest backs produced by the high school in at least a decade, ended his career with a wonderful performance. It was Ranson who time and time again broke through the line or scampered around end for long gains. It was Ranson who threw all of the ten passes which paid in so admirably. "Rabbit" was also a demon on defense, stopping the Tiger backs several times with hard tackles. Ranson called signals and directed play. He has established himself a fine player and a fine sport and will leave a big hole to fill next year, both because of his ability and personality.

Nyle Strommatt also played his last game. "Soak" plays center in the toughest line J.H.S. has had for many years. He plays roving center on defense, helping to back up the line. "Soak" is always the personification of pep and spirit. He never gives up and drives his chunky body into opposing blockers and runners to stop more than one likely rush.

Schildman Snatches Pass

Dick Schildman, the other senior, climaxed his high school career yesterday by intercepting a pass and sprinting nearly 40 yards for the longest run of the day. Dick is another boy with a fine spirit and who knows how to tackle and turn in plays that start around his end. He will also be greatly missed next year.

Another boy who deserves special mention because of his fight is Captain "Windy" Winfield Chinowith. He will be back next year. "Windy" was perhaps the happiest boy on the squad after the game. He is the spark plug of the line and there is no greater fighter on the whole squad.

Words of praise should be given to every man on the team. Bob Spink, Ralph Bourn, John Newberry, were others who made up that stone wall in the line. Each gave fine individual exhibitions during the course of the game and their work together in stopping the Tiger attack on the line of scrimmage was one of the features of the game. Harold Marshall, playing his first game as a starter equalled the defensive work done by any other single man. Time and again "Deacon" broke through to throw the runner for a loss. He made a beautiful catch of a slippery ball and acquitted himself in fine style generally.

In the backfield, Scott, Hickie, and Abel all did fine work. Abel is a sure tackler on defense, playing there in the end position. He turns the plays in, not allowing them to come around outside of him. He is one of the best pass catchers on the team. Scott made more tackles than any other one man in the back field and sprinted off tackle for some long gains. Hickie plunges consistently and hangs on to passes that come his way. "Henny" will be a valuable man next year, having played good ball all of this season.

Dietsch Stars for I.S.D.

For the Tigers, Dietsch was the outstanding player. He accounted for most of the tackles that threw Crimsons backs for losses and was the strong man of the line.

The field was snowy and the weather was terribly cold for the players. The ball was slippery. But, in spite of all this, the Crimsons came through with the greatest win of the year and one which wiped out the sting of the last encounter with the Tigers six years ago which ended with I.S.D. 75 to J.H.S. 0.

Illinois College Invited to Meet Second Annual Basketball Tournament to Be At Rock Island

Rock Island, Ill., Nov. 26.—(P)—The second annual invitational college basketball tournament, sponsored by the alumni chapter, Tribe of Vikings of Augustana College, will be held here Jan. 8 and 9, it was announced today.

Formal invitations have been sent to 19 schools representing four intercollegiate conferences.

They are:

From Illinois: Bradley, Monmouth, Knox, Western Illinois Teachers, Carthage, North Central, Illinois Wesleyan, Millikin and Augustana.

From Iowa: Columbia, Parsons, Upper Iowa, St. Ambrose, Central, Cornell, Coe Grinnell, Iowa Wesleyan.

From Wisconsin: Platteville State Teachers.

"That was worth waiting six years for," Coach Frank Walker declared after his Crimsons completely annihilated Illinois School for the Deaf's gridiron forces Thanksgiving morning on the J.H.S. field.

The Crimsons coach, who saw his team take a 75 to 0 lapping six years ago when these teams met for the last time, had to do a lot of holding to keep himself from breaking into a few cheers for the boys he often has described this year as one of the best bunches of boys he has coached.

The game was just about what Coach S. Robey Burns had expected. He argued all along that J.H.S. had too much power for his team and that his boys didn't have a chance.

Burns forecast a score of 35 to 0 once this column, and he might not have missed it far if the day had been normal. The hard field and the snow appeared to hamper the Crimsons in their scoring threats, but they made plenty of them.

Unusual was the poor punting of the Tiger kicker during the first half. His two straight up and down kicks that paved the way for the only touchdown had been duplicated prior to the fatal punts, but he began getting off better kicks in the second half.

Capt. Windy Chinowith, who gets pretty emotional when it comes to football, came off the field with tears streaming down his face. He wanted that victory over the Tigers, and when it came, he couldn't hold them back.

After watching the teams for awhile, the impression grew that Coach Walker has one of the best lines he has had in a long time. The center of the J.H.S. line was almost impenetrable, throwing back Tiger ball carriers more times than they got through.

There was some wonderment about the screen pass called against the Tigers. The play appeared to this column to be an attempt to duplicate the Illinois College "Humdinger," but its execution was faulty.

Eagerness on the part of the Tiger linemen caused them to charge across the line and to be in advance of the man who received the forward pass. This is in violation of the rules which may be in across the line of scrimmage when a pass is thrown. It is covered in the rule regarding offensive interference on forward passes.

The large crowd that turned out for the game saw one of those unusual battles, fought out on a snow covered field, on which yard lines meant very little. Officials were forced to do a little guessing on the advance of the ball because of the heavy fall of snow, but they protected themselves as much as possible by having the sidelines swept clean, so that they could determine whether a runner got out of bounds.

Players didn't get very wet, but their hands were a rosy pink after the game. This was particularly true of the Tigers, for only one man went in to the game wearing gloves. All of the Crimsons wore cotton gloves, and were able to keep their hands warm.

Washington Huskies Defeat State University, Assuring Rose Bowl Grid Classic Bid

New York, Nov. 26.—(P)—Washington's Huskies captured the Pacific Coast conference championship and all but assured themselves of the Rose Bowl assignment today as Fordham's Rams, not favorites two weeks ago to represent the East in the annual New Year's day classic at Pasadena, were dropped completely out of the reckoning by New York University.

While Washington's crack array, beaten only by Minnesota, was handing Washington state a 40-0 drubbing before 40,000 at Seattle, Fordham accepted a 7-6 defeat from N. Y. U., its traditional rival, and apparently left Alabama, Pittsburgh and Louisiana State as the sole remaining eligibles for the other half of the Rose Bowl assignment.

Louisiana State, tied by Texas but undefeated, closes its schedule Saturday against Tulane but Alabama and Pitt both wound up their successful campaigns with victories today.

Alabama, picked by many to Pasadena because of the close friendship between Coach Frank Thomas of Alabama and Coach Jimmy Phelan of Washington, had to come from behind to stop Vanderbilt, 14-6, in their traditional Thanksgiving day contest. Pitt, tied by Fordham and beaten by Duquesne, ran over Carnegie Tech, 31-14, with another impressive display of power.

These were the important games from a Rose Bowl aspect but the holiday program did not lack for other championship contests.

With Ace Parker breaking loose twice in the final quarter, Duke gained clear title to the southern conference championship by whipping North Carolina State, 13-0. Missouri, clearly heading back to the football heights it once occupied, came with a second half rush to topple Kansas, 19-3, and earn second place in the Big Six conference race won by Nebraska.

Texas' Longhorns, meanwhile, knocked Texas A. and M. out of the southwest conference race, winning a 7-0 decision. Arkansas' Razorbacks, fighting Texas Christian for the title, overturned Tulsa, 22-13, in a non-conference engagement. Denver, nosing out Colorado University, 7-6, gained second place in the final Rocky Mountain championship standings. Utah State, which already had won the title, upset Idaho, 10-0, in a non-conference game.

Bucknell held Temple to a scoreless tie. Penn had too much power for Cornell and won, 14-0, after a bitter fight. Colgate ran over Brown, 22-0; George Washington nosed out West Virginia, 7-2.

A big southern conference schedule saw North Carolina crush Virginia, 59-14; Furman topple Clemson, 12-0; Davidson check Wake Forest, 19-6; Maryland win from Washington & Lee, 19-6; Virginia Polytech nose out Virginia Military, 6-0, and Richmond hurdle William & Mary by the same count. Kentucky gave Tennessee a of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, said this week.

Two specifically diagnosed cases were found in Champaign county this week, Dr. Graham said, and others, still unverified, reported for various sections of the state.

There is no known cure for the disease in its later stages, Dr. Graham said, and its specific cause is not understood.

Safe procedure, he explained, was not to graze horses in stalk fields and to avoid feeding of damaged, worm-eaten corn.

Vaccination of Hogs Sold in Sales.

Because of the recent order issued by the State Department of Agriculture that hogs sold through community sales must have certificate of vaccination before being removed from sale yards, there has been some confusion relative to whether hogs sold in these sales might be vaccinated at home and certificate furnished by the owner. In order to clear up this confusion we are printing below that part of the recent order covering vaccination of hogs:

"All hogs, not sold for slaughter within five days, must be vaccinated by a licensed veterinarian before being removed from sale yards and taken within 24 hours to premises of buyer and there held in quarantine not less than 21 days, unless such hogs were delivered to the sale accompanied by a certificate of vaccination signed by a licensed veterinarian or an affidavit made before notary public by the producer-owner that he vaccinated such hogs. The producer-owner affidavit is considered an exception to the general rule only when the hogs are consigned to the sale by the one owning the hogs at the time of vaccination. Either certificate or affidavit must give date of vaccination. No hogs shall be offered for sale unless vaccination has been done at least 21 days prior to such sale. The terms "vaccinated" and "vaccination" when used in these regulations shall mean treatment with anti-hog cholera serum and virus.

"No hogs known to have been exposed to any known contagious, infectious, or communicable disease shall be sold.

Doubts Need of Seed Corn Loan Plan in Illinois.

As harvest of the 1936 corn crop progresses and drought stricken areas are first anticipated, it is probable that the emergency federal seed-corn loan plan will not be necessary in Illinois this fall, according to J. C. Hackleman, crops extension specialist, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

The seed-corn loan program was designed to assure farmers in drought and grasshopper stricken areas that adequate supplies of corn will be available for planting next spring. Developments in Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas indicate that those states will have to import much smaller quantities of seed corn than they thought.

However, it is possible, Hackleman says, that some farmers in drought areas may be in the market for Krug or Reid Yellow Dent from northern and north central Illinois. Ample supplies of seed are available in parts of Missouri.

To facilitate the movement of seed corn to drought areas where it is in demand, Hackleman is compiling a list of Illinois farmers who have good seed which has been carefully handled.

While awaiting definite action on the seed-corn loan program, farmers having good seed should cull out the bad corn and protect the good ears from freezing for the next two or three months, Hackleman suggested. After it is thoroughly dry, containing approximately 12 to 15 per cent moisture, it may be sold as ear corn if no market exists in the deficit areas.

Hackleman advises against the practice of piling seed corn on a solid floor, either wood or concrete, and recommends that it be placed on racks or spread out thinly over wire or thinly over wire or slatted floor.

Only a cold, wet spring and timely control measures can prevent serious grasshopper damage next year, according to W. F. Flint, chief entomologist, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, and Illinois State Natural History Survey. He bases his opinion on a survey showing that three times as many eggs were deposited by hoppers this fall as last.

Chicago Stock Show Begins November 28.

Prize herds and flocks from the four corners of the continent have been arriving at Chicago throughout the past week for the competitions of the 1936 International Live Stock Exposition, to be held in the International Amphitheatre at the Chicago Stock Yards November 28 to December 5.

The best purebred farm animals from the far west will compete with those from the eastern states; and Texas herds will be matched in competition with Canadian entries. Officials of the show announce that their prediction that the total number of animals would exceed 13,000 head has been realized.

Horses Number 1,000.

Horses will number nearly a thousand, of which 642, from 14 states and Quebec, will represent the five draft breeds. Over 350 horses and ponies will compete in the evening Horse Shows, says O. T. Henkle, chairman of the International Horse Show committee. They are the pick of the leading stables of the United States and Canada.

Purebred Shorthorn cattle will be shown by breeders from 16 states and Ontario. Herefords will come from 14 states and Alberta, Aberdeen-Angus cattle from 17 states and Ontario, Dairy Shorthorns from 10 states and Quebec, and Polled Shorthorns from 10 states.

Swine breeders from 11 states will contribute the largest showing of barrows that has been made in recent years. Seven breeds will be exhibited.

Eleven Sheep Breeds.

Flocks will be sent from 16 states and Ontario to make up one of the largest exhibitions of sheep in the history of the show. There will be 11 breeds on exhibit, coming from such distant sections as New York and Oregon, Ontario and Oklahoma.

All records were broken, it is announced, for the number of fat cattle, sheep, and swine which will be exhibited in open pens of the stock yards in the carlot contests. Stockmen from 12 states are sending a total of 500 carlots.

Live stock judging contests for both college students and farm youths of high-school age will take place on the opening week-end. It is reported that 26 state agricultural colleges are sending student teams and that contestants from 21 states will take part in the junior competition.

Reduced fares are offered during the stock show week by most of the railroads entering Chicago.

Better Farming Briefs.

By their outstanding word in 4-H club projects, 25 Illinois farm boys and 25 Illinois farm girls have won the right to represent state as delegates to the National 4-H Club Congress held in connection with the Chicago International Live Stock Exposition, November 28 to December 5. Announcement of the winning delegates was made by E. I. Pilchard and Miss Mary A. McKee, extension specialists in the junior club work. College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Claude R. Wickard has succeeded Gerald B. Thorne as director of the North Central division of the AAA, Illinois and nine other states comprise the North Central region in which Wickard will have supervision of the agricultural conservation program. He was formerly assistant director. Thorne has resigned to enter private business.

About 60 per cent of the 1936 United States turkey crop of 20,000,000 birds comes from the Middle West.

A poultry short course will be held at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, during Farm and Home Week, January 11 to 15.

Only a cold, wet spring and timely control measures can prevent serious grasshopper damage next year, according to W. F. Flint, chief entomologist, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, and Illinois State Natural History Survey. He bases his opinion on a survey showing that three times as many eggs were deposited by hoppers this fall as last.

Wanting Something— And Wanting It Now?

—Read through the Want Ads. It's more than likely you will find advertised today just what you are looking for, or the help you are needing. And think what a lot of time and trouble you may save yourself by devoting just five minutes to the classified page.

—And, if you shouldn't find just the item or service you want, try a Want Ad yourself. This plan also saves you time and trouble, and expense.

It might conceivably have afforded a degree of satisfaction to the police as they sought for the pieces missing from their puzzle.

Miss Lillian Lewis And Michael Albert Wed at Springfield

Ceremony Takes Place On Thanksgiving Morning; Dinner After Rites

Miss Lillian Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lewis of southeast of Jacksonville, became the bride of Michael Albert of Springfield in a ceremony at 8 a. m. Thanksgiving day in St. Peter and Paul's Catholic church at Springfield. Rev. Father Guido officiated.

To the strains of the wedding march played by Gerald Stokes, organist, the bride entered on the arm of her father who gave her away in marriage. She was attired in a light blue lace dress, fashioned on Princess lines slightly entrained. She wore a short jacket with leg-of-mutton sleeves, and a stand-up collar.

Her sandals were blue and her hat was made of corresponding blue lace, with a tulle brim. She carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and white mums, tied with white satin streamers.

The maid of honor, Miss Mildred Lewis, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Anna Rudolph, an attendant, sister of the bridegroom, were dressed alike in peach colored broadened satin dresses with full skirts, short jackets and puffed sleeves. Both wore brown satin sandals and brown feather hats. Their bouquets were of bronze pom-poms and darker mums, tied with corresponding colored bows.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Enoch Albert, as best man. Earl Rudolph served as groomsmen.

Ushers were Steve Albert and Edward Beret.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents, southeast of Jacksonville, to about 40 relatives and friends. Those attending from a distance were Mrs. Mary Winter, Aurora, Neb.; Mr. and Mrs. Emmert Albert and son of Peoria; Joe Albert of Wisconsin; Mr. and Mrs. James Young of Gillespie; Mr. and Mrs. Al McDonald, Peoria; Miss Gwendolyn Hayes, Loomis.

Mrs. Albert is a graduate of Franklin Community high school and from St. John's School of Nursing with the class of 1931. Since that time she has been employed on private duty cases.

Mr. Albert is a son of Mrs. Mary Albert of Springfield, and attended the Sacred Heart school. He is employed in mining.

William T. Spires, Respected Citizen, Summoned by Death

Death at Age of 89 Came After Lengthy Illness; Remembered Lincoln

William T. Spires, one of Morgan county's best known citizens, passed away at 10:10 o'clock Thursday morning at his home, 214 South Prairie street, after a lingering illness.

He had been confined to his bed since early last spring when he suffered a paralytic stroke. Had he lived until Dec. 19, he would have been 90 years of age.

Mr. Spires was one of the few remaining persons who once grasped the hand of Abraham Lincoln. As a lad of twelve he visited Jacksonville with his father and heard Lincoln deliver an address from the steps of the court house, which was then in the center of the public square. After the speech the youth was introduced to Lincoln and shook hands with him.

Mr. Spires also went to Springfield when the body of the civil war president lay in state, and was among the thousands who took a last look at Lincoln in his casket.

Except for a few years spent on a farm near Warrensburg, Mo., Mr. Spires resided all his life in Morgan county. In 1893 he moved his family to this city from the Franklin community. During his long residence here, he was employed by several local business firms, and was for ten years janitor at the court house. His last position was sexton of the First Baptist church, which he held for fifteen years.

Mr. Spires was born four miles southwest of Franklin Dec. 19, 1846, the son of W. T. and Margaret Spires. He was married Jan. 2, 1868, to Miss Mariah Dear, who preceded him in death Jan. 30, 1930. He is survived by one daughter, Miss Carrie B. Spires, at home. He leaves also four sisters, Mrs. Margaret Briggs of Harper, Kan., Mrs. Emma Smith of Springfield, Mrs. M. L. Roberts of Franklin, and Mrs. P. C. Woods of San Antonio, Texas. Four sisters and a brother preceded him in death.

The body was removed to the Cody & Son Memorial home, and will be returned to the residence Saturday morning.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon from the First Baptist church, of which Mr. Spires was a faithful and devoted member. Services will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. F. D. Stone. Interment will be in Diamond Grove cemetery.

The watches and rings were stolen from the jewelry store early on the evening of November 11, 1936, when the thief threw a brick thru the display window of the establishment on West Morgan street, grabbed the watches and rings and escaped on foot. The theft took place as persons were walking along nearby streets and while other business houses nearby were occupied by clerks and customers, the act startling local residents.

Police, who were called to the scene of the robbery at once, were given a varied assortment of opinions as to the appearance of the thief and as to his means of escape. Some persons who were near the robbery scene were of the opinion that the man who broke the glass made his get away in an automobile, while others said he left on foot. Others gave an assortment of descriptions, which the police checked.

The belief that he made his escape for some time, the officers reported last night. His arrest came at a time when all of the watches and rings stolen were found upon his person. Murphy was given no chance to get rid of the jewelry, three officers making the arrest and search.

Murphy was taken to the police station at once, where the officers said he confessed to breaking the glass and taking the valuables. Mr. and Mrs. Henry were notified and after inspecting the watches and rings identified them as their property, the identification being made with gratification, since the jewelry was not insured.

The watches are valued by their owners at $33.75 and $37.75 respectively and two of the rings had value of $25 each and one at $33.50.
